

RESIDENCE AND EMPLOYMENT RIGHTS IN THE INTERNAL MARKET

DR. Éva Lukács Gellérné, assistant professor

Department of Private International Law and European Economic Law (ELTE)

e-mail: gellernelukacs.eva@ajk.elte.hu

Description

The course covers the essential EU legal framework on residence and employment rights within the framework of free movement of persons containing a concise overview on the Brexit process.

---

Course schedule

The course spells out in detail the vast legal material on free movement of persons under EU law. Concrete issues from the realm of residence and employment rights, including the recognition of qualifications, will be dealt with. Analysis of the legal sources will be based on the TFEU and secondary EU law instruments (Regulation 492/2011/EU, Regulation 883/2004/EC, Directive 2005/36/EC, Directive 2004/38/EC). Special focus will be put on the relevant case-law of the European Court, we will choose cases and examine them in detail. Notable examples of implementation of EU law into national law will also be touched upon. The course aims at drawing a horizontal picture regarding short-term and long-term labour migration, the underlying processes, realities and consequences.

Appr. 3 classes will be devoted to the understanding of the Brexit process focusing on citizens' rights. The Withdrawal Agreement and its underlying ideas will be examined in detail.

---

Assessment:

Lecture participation is obligatory. Written exam (appr. 15 very short questions), active participation during the course will be appreciated and taken into account.

---

Materials

The slides of the lectures and uploaded documents during the course.

---